$2,376,100,000 Plane Fund Voted By House Committee

Surprise Money Bid Wins Quick Approval

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A $2,376,100,000 dip into next year's military funds for an emergency warplane and guided missile program won quick committee approval in Congress today.

Designed as a go-ahead signal for the aviation industry to tool up for still greater output, the surprise money request was okayed in full by the House appropriations group.

The committee's locked-door hearings had been assumed to cover only the $725,000,000 boost in aviation funds asked by President Truman last Thursday.

But the White House followed that with a second request, which remained secret until today. That was because the committee already was in session and the new message went directly to it instead of through normal congressional channels.

Aside from the timing, however, the bigger amount in today's bill represents no increase in the $14,000,000,000 contemplated for military spending in the year beginning July 1 to back up this country's new stop-Russia policy.

Barring a new emergency, the air power funds simply will be deducted from the amount that would have been voted later.

The money will, however, be available for use immediately as soon as Congress passes the bill. It is set for quick approval in the House tomorrow.

The Army and the Navy previously have been given about $8,750,000,000 for the year ending June 30.

FAST ACTION WANTED

The committee said the additional $2,376,100,000 should be made available immediately to save time and to get the aviation industry under a full head of steam.

Here's how the new money is earmarked:

Air Forces: For new spending $1,223,100,000, including $358,100,000 cash and $865,000,000 in contract authority; new cash to pay off previous contract authorizations $250,000,000.

Naval aeronautics: For new spending $753,000,000, including $165,000,000 in cash and $588,000,000 in contract authority; new cash to pay off previous contract authorizations $150,000,000.

The cash for new Air Forces spending includes $1,140,000,000 for plane buying, $10,300,000 for the purchase of controlled missiles, and $72,800,000 for miscellaneous projects.

For the Navy $738,700,000 is set aside for plane buying, $9,300,000 for pilotless aircraft, and $5,000,000 for miscellaneous projects.

Nowhere in the committee's formal report on the bill or in the printed records of its hurried hearings was there any explanation of how many planes would be acquired with the new funds.

Rent Hike Ban Holds

Rent controls still are in effect, George H. Blecker, director of the Mansfield area rent office, said today.

He issued a statement to correct what he termed a "false impression" that the new rent act provides for an additional 15 per cent blanket rent increase.

Under the new act, as under the old one, he said, a landlord may raise rents only with approval from the rental office.

Rental increases may be granted only if the landlord and tenant enter into a written lease and file copy of the lease within 15 days after date of execution with the rental office. The lease then must be approved before it is effective and must run through Dec. 31, 1949.

"While we have not received all the particulars of the new law, all the grounds for relief remain in the new law that were in the old law," Blecker said. "Persons having made improvements or increased services or any of the other grounds with substantial evidence may apply, and probably would, receive an increase.

"I would like to say again that a landlord should be very careful about raising rent 15 per cent without a lease as he may subject himself to treble damages for the overcharge."

Air Armada Hops Ocean

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass.—(AP)—One of the mightiest fleets of U. S. Airforce bombers ever sent overseas took off today for Germany—possibly other stops abroad.

While officials here said the number of B-29s was "classified" information, it was learned that about 30 Super-forts make up the fleet attached to the 15th Airforce.

The flight—longest peacetime hop of such large numbers of B-29s in Airforce history—was officially described as "a routine training mission."

Leaving Smoky Hill air base in Kansas during the night, the fleet's first bomber piloted by Lt. James T. Bloyd jr. of Portland, Ore., set down here at 5:48 a. m. (EST) and took off at 7:38 a. m. for Goose Bay to refuel.

The other planes zoomed in at 15 minute intervals—making only brief stopovers.

26 Limit Set On Draft Age

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The Senate armed services committee voted unanimously today to exclude from registration for the draft or universal military training anyone 26 years of age or older.

Chairman Gurney (R-SD), announced the decision and said that his committee further agreed to postpone any other action until it has received Defense Secretary Forrestal's final recommendations on requirements under a 70-group air force program.

Election Day Skies Sunny

OMAHA —(INS)— Bright, sunny skies and temperatures in the upper 40's prevailed over most of Nebraska today as voters marked their ballots in the state's presidential preferential primary.

On the basis of early Omaha returns, election Commissioner Herman Kuppinger predicted a "normal" vote in Omaha at least. He said about 60,000 ballots would be cast in the city.

Estimates place the number who will vote all over the state at about 250,000.

Leading contenders for GOP presidential delegates are Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota.

Mother Slays 4, Kills Self

PITTSBURGH —(UP)— A 32-year-old housewife shot and killed her four children and then committed suicide in her suburban Bellevue home, police reported today.

The dead were Mrs. Gilbert E. Morecraft; her two daughters, Susan, 8, and Nancy, 7 months; and two sons, Douglas, 3, and Gilbert jr. 12.

Their bodies were found by her husband, a solicitor for the Pittsburgh school board, early this morning. Police said the shooting occurred shortly before midnight.

TB Opinion Due Tonight

Board Expected To Request Bids

The Richland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium Building commission will meet at 7:30 p. m. today in the offices of the county commissioners to hear Prosecutor Theodore Lutz's opinion on whether the architect's estimates meet the requirements of law.

Dr. John S. Hattery, chairman of the building commission, in calling the meeting, said he hoped the commission could go ahead in readvertising for contract bids.

The commission had to reject bids the first time because they exceeded the architect's estimates.

The county has $700,000 to build the proposed five-story, 84-bed hospital. A request for $104,566 in federal aid has met with state department of health approval. A ruling by the surgeon-general in Washington is expected shortly.

Octogenarians Plan Wedding

CLEVELAND —(AP)— An 83-year-old widow and an 81-year-old retired farmer said today they will set their wedding date "in a few days."

Mrs. Carrie Phillips and William Meyer already have the license. Both live in nearby Chagrin Falls, where she operates a rooming house.

Maritime Union's Complaint Rejected

Court Backs Labor Law Anti-Red Rule

WASHINGTON — (UP) — A special three-judge court today upheld the constitutionality of the non-communist section of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

In a 2 to 1 decision, the federal tribunal tossed out a complaint by the CIO National Maritime Union that the non-communist provisions of the act violate the Constitution.

"We are of the opinion . . . that . . . the provisions of the statute assailed by the plaintiff (the union) were enacted and may be enforced without offense to the constitution," the majority opinion said.

The section provides that no union can use the services of the National Labor Relations board unless its officers sign affidavits stating that they are not communists.

It is aimed at routing communists from the American labor movement.

The majority opinion said "it would be unrealistic to say, in the light of all that appears, that the presence of communists in key positions in labor relations does not constitute a clearly discernable and imminent threat to the important national interests."

The majority opinion was written by Judge Wilbur K. Miller, associate justice of the U. S. court of appeals. He was joined by Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws of the U. S. district court.

Whisky Grain Slash Urged

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of Agriculture Anderson appealed to Congress anew today for authority to limit use of grain for making whiskey.

He said distillers are using grains — particularly corn — at a near record rate at a time farmers are being forced to cut down livestock production because of short corn supplies.

In a letter to Rep. Hays (D-Ark), the secretary urged the congressman to continue "vigorous efforts" in behalf of a Senate-approved bill authorizing grain rationing for distillers.

ESCAPE DEATH

SHANGHAI —(INS)— Fourteen men were injured but all 29 occupants of a U. S. Marine corps C-46 escaped with their lives today when the transport plane crashed and burned at Shanghai's Kiangwan airfield.

Dispute Decision Lost By Steel Firm

Labor Board Backs Pension Bargaining

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The National Labor Relations board ruled today employers must bargain with their employes on pension plans if the employes request it.

The 4-1 decision was the first on this subject in the board's 13-year history.

The four-man majority held that such plans come within the scope of the Taft-Hartley law which requires both employes and unions to bargain collectively "in respect to rates of pay, wages, hours of employment, or other conditions of employment."

The board held the payment of benefits under pension plans falls within the meaning of "wages."

It said the terms of retirement —such as the age when pensions begin — would come within the category of "conditions of employment."

The ruling was made in a case involving the Inland Steel company. The board found the company guilty of refusing to bargain collectively.

It held the company had violated both the Taft-Hartley law and the Wagner act under which the case was originally filed in August, 1946.

The board issued a conditional order. It told the company to bargain with two locals of the CIO steelworkers concerning the pension and retirement policies if the union complies with the registration and non-communist oath requirements of the Taft-Hartley law within 30 days.

New Flood Hits City District

School Closed At Bellville

Flood conditions today closed the Bellville school and caused heavy damage to county roads and croplands following heavy rains in the Mansfield area last night.

Total fall for the past two days was boosted to approximately two inches after .65 of an inch soaked Mansfield last night. All roads in the county, however, were reported open today.

The weatherman predicted more showers this afternoon and tonight with skies expected to clear tomorrow.

The Clear Fork today was reported within six inches of overflowing State Route 13 near Bellville and State Route 97 between Bellville and Butler.

State Route 545 near Olivesburg was reported covered with water but passable.

The water that covered streets in the Fredericktown business district yesterday subsided today and the only reported damage was to flooded basements.

State and county highway maintenance offices reported extensive damage to road shoulders, but added that the roads were open.

SEWERS OPEN

E. W. Davis, city street superintendent, said Sunday's heavy rain cleaned out the sewers and that last night's rain was carried away without causing serious damage.

C. M. Chatlain, Madison township trustee, said today that damage to the township roads by floods and thawing is the heaviest in recent years. He said the township has started making repairs.

The weather bureau's five-day extended forecast predicted temperatures about two degrees above normal. Cool Wednesday; warmer late Thursday and Friday; cooler Saturday and Sunday. Showers early Wednesday and again about Saturday. Total rainfall, one-half to one inch.

Major Ohio River Flood In Making

CINCINNATI —(AP)—. The rapid rising Ohio river will reach flood proportions throughout the Cincinnati district late today and tonight and current rains indicate a "major flood" is in the making, the U. S. weather bureau reported.

Declining to predict a possible crest, Meteorologist J. Cecil Alter said the 50-foot flood stage would be reached at Portsmouth, O., tonight, and that the river would hit flood stage of 52 feet here "late in the day."

Zionists Hit Trusteeship

JERUSALEM—(AP)—The Zionist general council intends to proclaim an independent Jewish state in the Holy Land May 16, the day after the British mandate ends.

The decision was made yesterday after an all-night session of the council at Tel Aviv. An internal authority may be set up which eventually would become the provisional government of the Jewish state. Consideration of this plan continued.

Members also approved the long proposed military accord between Haganah, the Jewish militia, and Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground group.

It was reported earlier that differences over this alliance caused the resignation of Dr. Isaac Gruenbaum, vice chairman of the Jewish agency executive.

The alliance was a military accord only and the two differing political programs of the groups stay the same. It was agreed on by a 32 to 39 vote, with five abstentions.

Under it, Irgun Zvai Leumi keeps its military makeup, but is under command of Haganah, and will take no independent military action.

Federal Highway Aid Bill Voted

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The House voted today to continue the postwar federal aid highway program for three more years at a cost of $1,500,000,000. Approval was by a roll call vote of 278 to 6.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where approval is expected. The present program runs out July 1. The bill would make available to the states on a matching basis $500,000,000 a year for state and federal highways.

All's Quiet On Capital City Front

COLUMBUS —(INS)— No more unnecessary horn tootling, no more sound trucks, no more stationary public address systems for advertising in Columbus.

City council passed an anti-noise ordinance last night outlawing all three.

The council also approved a ban on smoking in department stores and elevators a few weeks ago.

It's gettin' so a man just can't relax and be natural.

Conference To Reopen In Bogota

Delegates Agree To Stay In City

BOGOTA —(INS)— Delegates to the Inter-American conference disrupted last Friday by the bloody revolt blamed by U.S. Secretary of State Marshall on world communism, planned today to resume their sessions tomorrow.

A ceremony honoring the great South American liberator, Simon Bolivar, will mark the reopening of the conference.

Representatives of the 21 American republics are reported in agreement on the decision to continue their sessions in battered Bogota, to demonstrate to the world that the communist inspired revolt could not shatter hemisphere solidarity.

The decision is expected to be formally ratified late today, with adoption of a four-point report noting that with the exception of isolated areas, normalcy has been restored in the Colombian capital.

The delegations are understood to have agreed to shelve economic matters, which some had planned to press at the current meeting, until a special economic conference is held later this year.

Two United States planes left Bogota yesterday with 86 persons aboard, and 80 persons are scheduled to leave for the U.S. today and five tomorrow.

Spokesmen explained that those who departed are women, employes of the U.S. delegation and wives of conference attaches.

All top delegates and their principal advisers remain in Bogota and are prepared to remain throughout the conference.

Entertainer Accepts Job As Housemaid

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — Maria Gatica, Chilean night club singer who earns $1,200 weekly, was found last night after a five-day disappearance working as a housemaid.

The 26-year-old expectant mother telephoned her husband, Gene Fell, Los Angeles and Mexico importer, to report her whereabouts after she said she had read newspaper stories concerning her disappearance. Fell quoted her as saying:

"I just wanted to get away from my career and its problems for a while."

Fell said Miss Gatica took a taxi and answered a newspaper want-ad for a domestic position at the home of a Mr. and Mrs. John Moss.

The importer said his wife was "very happy" in her new job and planned to remain with the Mosses "for the rest of the week or until they can get a new maid."

Wallace's Mother Dies

DES MOINES, Ia. — (UP) — Henry A. Wallace, third party presidential candidate, said today that funeral services for his mother, Mrs. May Wallace, would be private. Mrs. Wallace died last night of bronchial pneumonia. She was 80.

Wallace, his brother James, a Des Moines seed corn dealer, and two sisters, Mrs. Annabelle McLay of Birmingham, Mich., and Mrs. Charles Bruggman, wife of the Swiss minister to the United States, were at their mother's side when she died.

Two other children, John, a St. Petersburg, Fla., insurance man, and Mrs. Ruth Per Wijkman, wife of a Swedish diplomat, were enroute here today.

Collision Kills Two

FINDLAY—(AP)—A Greyhound bus and a truck collided near here yesterday, killing two men riding in the truck and injuring four bus passengers, none seriously. Leonard Swavel, 57, and Harold Swavel, about 20, both of Morral, Marion county, were killed.

Digging Begins In Some Pits

Action Awaited On Lewis Trial

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government today dropped all restrictions put on train service during the coal strike.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Thousands of soft coal miners returned to work today in response to word from John L. Lewis to end their month-long strike.

But many others still stayed home. They apparently were awaiting the outcome of Lewis' contempt of court trial tomorrow for ignoring a court order to end the strike last week.

A check in the coal fields showed production as high as 75 per cent in some sections of western Pennsylvania and Illinois.

There had been some advance estimates that about one-third of the strikers would show up at the pits today. District officials had said the working force would be substantial.

Along with the back-to-work movement in the soft coal fields, more than 30,000 sympathy strikers in the hard coal fields of eastern Pennsylvania went back to their jobs.

The severity of Lewis' possible punishment for ignoring a court restraining order may depend on the miners' reaction. If found guilty tomorrow Lewis could be sentenced to jail as well as fined heavily.

But if the mines are back in operation, Justice T. Alan Goldsborough might ease the penalty for overlooking the court order.

SET HEAVY FINES

Once before, he slapped a $3,500,000 fine on the union and $10,000 on Lewis for contempt of a similar court order to end a strike. The fines later were reduced to a total of $710,000.

Reaction to Lewis' sudden settlement of the pension dispute was mixed. He agreed to a compromise plan advanced by Senator Bridges (R-NH), who was designated as the neutral trustee of the miners' $32,000,000 welfare and retirement fund in a weekend move which caught Republicans as well as the Democratic Truman administration by surprise.

Mr. Truman had invoked the Taft-Hartley act's national emergency strike provisions by appointing a board of inquiry then authorizing Attorney General Clark to seek an injunction.

The April 3 restraining order issued by Judge Matthew F. McGuire followed.

But Lewis and his miners looked the other way, until House Speaker Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass) stepped in with his suggestion that Bridges be named the neutral trustee.

Claims ERP Means War

BERLIN —(AP)— A high Russian official told a German youth meeting today the "Marshall plan means war."

The speaker, Col. Sergei Tulpanov, political and information chief of the Soviet military administration in Germany, also likened President Truman to the late Hermann Goering.

"This is the epoch of the collapse of capitalism," Tulpanov told the young workers of the Soviet zone state-owned properties at Zeitz, Saxony.

He claimed the Marshall aid to Europe plan was the offshoot of "greedy attempts of American monopolists to exploit war-weakened Europe for their own profit."

"The Marshall plan means the division of Germany, the division of Europe—it means war," Tulpanov asserted.

Allied intelligence reports said yesterday the Russians were increasing occupation forces in their zone, which surrounds Berlin

The increases were said to be mostly MVD (secret police) units, concerned with executing new Russian border and traffic controls.

Officials Will Sign Vet Bonds

COLUMBUS —(UP)— State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson and State Secretary Edward J. Hummel today prepared to leave for New York where they will sign the 200,000 bonds of $1,000 denomination to finance the World War II Ohio veterans' bonus.

A bonus spokesman, meanwhile, said Adj. Gen. Chester W. Gobie, bonus director, "is still hopeful the first check will be written before the month is over."

Columnist Challenges Reliability Of Roper as Election Pollster

Mr. Elmo Roper, whose reliability as a pollster far exceeds his ability as a newspaperman, attempted to rescue the Luce publications by reporting more inaccurately than Time, Life or Fortune . . . Mr. Roper deserted his statistics machine long enough to commit a flagrant error at the typewriter.

On March 8th I reported: "Democratic chiefs are grim over the report that Time-Life publisher H. Luce's private poll shows 15 million are for Wallace. That's about 10% of the population" . . . That's all I said . . . I was reporting on the state of mind of the men making the decisions. And I can tell you now that that was their state of mind—and very important decisions were made on it.

Mr. Roper headlined that "A Non-Existent Poll Shows Wallace Boom" . . . Mr. Roper says the poll is non-existent. It was certainly existent in the minds of the Democratic chiefs when I reported it . . . Roper reasons that since he didn't do it, no one else could have.

★

Mr. Roper says that I said Luce's poll showed 15,000,000 VOTES . . . That is a flat lie . . . I said the Democratic chiefs were grim over a report that 15,000,000 PEOPLE were for Wallace . . . I said that was about 10% of the population. But I didn't say one word about votes.

Imagine a great statistician like Mr. Roper mistaking PEOPLE for VOTES . . . Even I, an humble reporter, know more about statistics than to do that.

Mr. Roper then proceeds to say that he had called to tell me that no one would, or could, suppress any of his polls . . . Just how a state of mind of a political party on a rumor of a private poll can be built up into a suppression of Roper's poll in particular staggers the imagination.

But note this: I said that 15,000,000 people was about 10% of the population . . . Mr. Roper reports that one of his surveys showed a maximum of 9.9% that favored Wallace on Russia! . . . I most emphatically did not say that 10% was for Wallace for President. I said that the rumor was 10% for Wallace—and Roper says 9.9% was for Wallace ON RUSSIA! . . . Confirmation! . . . Thanks.

Then Mr. Roper intones that he is NOW conducting a poll on Presidential candidates—and he says that it will be "interesting to see if those who so eagerly believe Winchell will accept these results a few weeks from now" . . . In the first place, they don't have to believe me—they have Mr. Roper's confirmation of my story.

But it seems to me that both Mr. Roper and Mr. Luce should proceed just a bit more modestly at this time . . . Because Life just printed for its readers one of the "shrewdest' of "private predictions" of the result of the Wisconsin primary. 'It gave MacArthur 16; Dewey 6 and Stassen 5! . . . This is the actual count: Stassen 19; MacArthur 8; Dewey 0 . . . Humf!

New Policy Toward Germany Poses Anglo-British Problem

The British military governor, Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, last week addressed the Parliament of the German state of North Rhine-Westphalia, which includes the Ruhr.

The address had been approved by Ernest Bevin and must be taken also as a declaration of what has now become our own German policy.

There is to be a German central government in Frankfurt, set up with Anglo-American support, which is to compete with another German central government, to be set up in Berlin or Leipzig, with Russian support.

Both German governments will then claim they represent the unity of Germany, and a contest will be waged by the two German governments to win the support of the masses of the German people.

According to this policy the Frankfurt government will both work for reunion with the eastern Germans and administer western Germany as an integral and essential part of the European Recovery Program and of the western union.

It would be easier to feel confidence in the success of the Anglo-American policy if it were not that for at least two years, and openly since the Molotov statement of July, 1946, it has been the aim of the Soviet Union to make itself the champion of German unity under a German central government.

Presumably the Russians would not have initiated this contest for German unity if they had not felt reasonably confident that it was a contest which they could win.

So we must hope the British government, which made the present policy, and the American government, which has come around to it, know what they are doing, and have not committed themselves irretrievably without a very clear idea of how this struggle for Germany is to be conducted.

★

They have had ample and repeated warning from Europeans and from Americans who know Europe and Germany and the history of German-Russian relations.

Conceivably Gen. Robertson is right when he says that "these are strange times. They have no parallel in history."

But he would do well to bear in mind the saying that those who do not learn from the experience of history are doomed to repeat it.

No German can possibly talk about German unity, and not mean by that the restoration of most, if not all, the territory behind the front of the Red Army.

★

If the Frankfurt Germans ally themselves with the western powers in order to get back eastern Germany, they can get it back only as a result of war in which Russia and Poland were defeated. Germany would be a principal battlefield of such a war.

On the other hand, Molotov is also offering them "German unity." Molotov, however, can, if he decides to do it, give them back the eastern lands. For he has them and Bevin does not have them.

So, despite Gen. Robertson's idea that these times "have no parallel in history," the parallel of the repeated German-Russian agreements from Frederick the Great to Hitler will inevitably occur to the Germans and to the Russians.

Council Set To Change Bond Dates

Ordinance Change To Save $5,000

City council will meet in a special session tonight to discuss a proposed change in the maturity dates for the $1,200,000 water works bond issue. The change is designed to save the city approximately $5,000.

An ordinance passed last Tuesday authorizing the clerk of council to advertise for bids for underwriting the issue, stipulated that the bonds shall mature and pay interest each June and December from 1949 until 1962.

The proposed change will make the bonds mature and pay interest each April and October from 1949 until 1962.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley explained that, in effect, it means that the $1,200,000 will be borrowed for a two months shorter period and will save the city about $5,000 in interest.

STREET PROJECTS

Two more streets will be started on the legislative path that leads to improvement. Council will consider bills requesting the city engineer to prepare plans and estimates for paving Crouse street, from Glessner avenue to West First street and to resurface South Diamond street from Hedges street to Woodville road.

Other legislation that probably will be acted on tonight includes an appropriation of $500 from the parking meter fund for purchase of parking meters to replace stolen and damaged ones.

Council also will be asked to appropriate an additional $475 from the water fund for stationary and printing costs.

Road Funds Allocated

Richland county and its subdivisions will receive $139,088 in a few days as the first allocation of 1948 auto license plate funds, Edward T. Fogo, state registrar of motor vehicles, said today.

Initial distribution of funds by the state will total $12,439,539, or $1,013,587 more than last year, Fogo said. The first allocation will be made a little earlier than last year.

Funds are used by counties, cities and villages for road and street construction and maintenance. Distribution is on the basis of motor vehicle registration in the county.

Allocations to other nearby counties include:

Ashland, $59,893; Crawford, $71,562; Holmes, $26,802; Huron, $109,202; Knox, $58,878, and Morrow, $28,454.

Scout Leaders Get Training

Girl Scout leaders of Mansfield joined in first aid classes at the Red Cross chapter house Monday night, the first of a series of six such classes of three hours each.

They were taught by Mrs. Julia Raby, assistant supervisor of nurses at General hospital, assisted by Gerald Coron, staff first aid and water safety director of the Red Cross.

Classes will be held twice weekly from 7 to 10 p. m. until the series has been completed.

Queen's Too Small For Chosen Career

Marian Haring, queen of the Mansfield Relays, wants to grow another inch.

"I wanted to be an airline hostess so much," Marian said, "but I'm only five feet one inch and a hostess has to be at least five feet two."

So Marian, hazel-eyed and with light brown hair, is going to compromise and be a laboratory technician—if she can call that a compromise. At present, she's more interested in just having fun, and she may change her mind before she enters Greenbrriar Junior college at Lewisburg, W. Va., next fall.

As to her being elected queen, Marian was pleased but also surprised.

"I'm pleased, too," she said, "with my court."

Most any girl would be, for that matter, for the members of the court are among the prettiest girls in Senior high.

There's Gloria Morton, who's planning to enter Bethel Women's college in Kentucky next fall, where she will train either for a dietitian or a nurse; Marilyn Beattie, whose college goal is Wittenberg; Betty Long, who will enter Ohio University at Athens and Joan Freeland, who plans to study at Miami university.

Marian will wear a black formal for her official crowning at assembly Friday morning and has chosen a pink corduroy suit with blue accessories for her reign as queen at the relays Saturday.

Cancer Drive Stirs Interest

With opening of the annual cancer fund drive in Mansfield and Richland county still five days away, inquiries regarding donations are already coming in, Richland Wolford, drive chairman, said today.

A number of inquiries were received at General hospital for persons seeking to know where donations may be sent.

Campaign headquarters are being set up on the second floor of the YMCA on Park avenue west, Wolford said, and checks may be mailed to that address in care of the Mansfield Unit, American Cancer society.

Wygant, is achieving recognition for his performance with Lakewood's Little Theater, in the Woollcott-Kaufman mystery "Dark Tower," which began a 20-day run on April 7. The Cleveland critic who reviewed the play had this to say about the Mansfield man: "The lion of the occasion, however, seemed to me to be Willis Wygant, whose way with the piece's Svengali is sure and bright. The play has bite with him en scene." Wygant forsook a medical career last June and started in the theater on his way to a goal of a radio career. On April 24 he will join Lakewood's new radio station as program manager.

PERFUMED?—

The captains' room at the police station smelled very much like the kitchen of a French restaurant today. At 9:30 p. m. yesterday, police found six bags of onions in front of the Red and White store, 212 North Main street. To prevent anyone from stealing them, the officers brought the six bags to the captains' room. The odor permeated the first floor and some traces of it could be noted on the second floor of the city building.

Sentence Reduced By State

Man Serves 20 Years In Pen

Lawrence Mitchell, 55, former Willard railroad section hand, serving a life sentence in Ohio penitentiary for the slaying of a Mansfield woman 20 years ago, was given a chance for a parole today.

His first-degree murder sentence was commuted to a second-degree sentence, making Mitchell eligible for a parole hearing. The commutation was ordered on the recommendation of the state pardon and parole board.

When Mitchell was sentenced in Richland county common pleas court for the murder of his sweetheart, Mrs. Amy Reynolds, the jury specified that he would have "no hope of pardon."

Mrs. Reynolds was found strangled in her home on John Long avenue Aug. 29, 1927. Mitchell was sentenced Jan. 16, 1928.

FIVE PAROLED

Five other men sentenced from Richland county were granted paroles today at London Prison farm. They are:

Julius Jackson and Lester Daniels, both sentenced to one to five years on May 21, 1947, for pocket-picking; William Baker, sentenced to one to 20 years on May 12, 1944, for operating a motor vehicle without the owners' consent;

Auttie Rosenberry, sentenced to one to 20 years, on May 15, 1945, for stabbing to wound; and Calvin Williams, sentenced to one to 20 years May 18, 1945, for shooting with intent to kill.

Each of the five had pleaded guilty. Paroles of the first four are effective July 8 and Williams will be paroled May 20.

Stars Pay Final Tribute To Hawkins

Simple rites were read in the Patchogue L. I., St. Paul's Episcopal church at 3 p. m. yesterday for George Arthur Hawkins, secretary and business manager to Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield who died Friday in New York of a heart attack.

More than 200 persons attended the quarter-hour ceremony. Among them were stage, radio and literary New Yorkers, including Mr. Hawkins's close friend, Eddie Dowling. Present, too, was the entire Bromfield family, including the governess, Miss Jennie White.

Huge floral displays filled the church. Tributes included those from Hollywoodites Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall, John Ringling North and Actress Kay Francis. Flowers were still arriving as the body was removed to the Patchogue cemetery for burial.

Mr. Hawkins, colorful and genial companion to the Richland county author for more than 18 years, was credited with preparing many of Bromfield's scripts for publication. Mr. Hawkins's vibrant personality is described in the author's latest book, "Malabar Farm," soon to be released.

'Four Pianos In Concert' Proves Outstanding Feature

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Four pairs of hands danced over the keyboards last night and produced one of the finest musical concerts heard in Mansfield.

"Four Pianos In Concert," featuring pianists Florence Lockshin, Margaret Hall, Marie Porterfield Platt and Thelma Reed, proved another star in the city's "home-grown" musical talent productions.

Sponsored by the Mansfield Music Study club, the concert drew more than 800 persons to John Simpson auditorium for the opening night. The concert will be repeated tonight at 8:15.

If the four artists had been billed as professionals, the enthusiastic audience would have accepted them as such, so flawless was their presentations of the piano masters, Chopin, Rachmaninoff and Paderewski.

WELL SATISFIED

It was an unmistakable case of Mansfielders appreciating Mansfielders. City residents knew they had a right to expect only the best and they left well satisfied with the results.

Transplanted into a lovely, softly-lighted stage, banked with palms, the quartet appeared in flowing pastel gowns that enhanced the music they played. It was hard to imagine that any one of these women ever washed a dinner dish or baked a cake. But they have.

The program was tuned to the ear of the music lover who, however prone to accept the modern compositions still adheres to the classics.

TIMING PERFECTION

The opening numbers of Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" (by request) and Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" displayed the timing perfection of the quartet and set the stage for the brilliantly-executed Chopin portion of the program.

Drawing many an "oh" and "ah" on the last note was the Chopin "Nocturne in C minor," followed by the "Waltz in D flat major," the "Butterfly" and "Black Key" Etudes, and the well loved "Polonaise In A Flat."

Other selections included Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C sharp minor," Paderewski's "Minuet in G;" the high-spirited "Czardas" by Monti; "Hora Staccato" by Dinicu-Heifetz; "Rumba Rhapsody" by Audinot-DeBru; and the encore number "Saber Dance" made recently popular.

Genial Paul Brown Spreads Gospel of Cleveland Browns

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

PAUL BROWN, the maestro of the Cleveland Browns' pro football team, has been in our midst for the past couple of days spreading the type of sports goodwill which is prevalent in these days of Pee, himself, in football, and Bill Veeck, in baseball. . . . These two fellows are of the best in spreading the gospel of Cleveland sports. . . . But today's yarn has to do only with Brown. . . . He's in Mansfield for a couple of speaking engagements and yesterday afternoon dropped out to Senior high school to see one of his proteges —Augie Morningstar—impart some gridiron knowledge to the young men of Tyger football. . . . Brown spoke last night at the Elks club and made an appearance today before a joint Rotary-Kiwanis meeting at the Leland. . . . The genial maestro and the Cleveland Browns' latest technicolor motion picture offering, "Meet the Browns," really sells his product—football. . . . For Paul says, "All of the Browns are high-class boys. They are good business men who excel at their jobs." . . . Brown told a tale out-of-school on Morningstar last night. . . . It seems that the Massillons were playing Erie academy several years ago and on the opening kick-off Augie tackled a Pennsylvania lad right in front of the Wasington high bench. . . . Augie seemed to be knocked out on the play and Brown immediately trotted on the field to see what was wrong. . . . He bent over and raised Augie's eyelids to see if the pupils were dilated. . . . About that time Augie opened one eye and said, "How's the crowd taking it coach."

★ ★ ★

NATURALLY the talk got around to the Cleveland Browns and their chances in the All-America conference in 1948. . . . The Browns took the league bunting in its first two years of operation but Paul says, "We can't go on winning forever but we will keep trying. The Browns of 1948 will have that new look and I hope I like it better than the other new look." . . . Among the Browns top men who will be gone are: Moe Scarry, center; Ernie Blandin, tackle and Don Greenwood and Mickey Mayne, right halfs. . . . Then, too, Edgar "Special Delivery" Jones may pass up the Browns to stay in pro baseball. . . . Brown told us, "We will give Jones the best offer possible because he is very vital in our plans, although he would probably last longer in baseball. All last year Jones kept bragging to the boys how great a baseball pitcher he was. Then early this spring, Jones was pitching for the Indians when a college team pinned his ears back for seven runs. A couple of the boys sent him a telegram saying, 'All is forgiven, Come back home." . . . Lou "The Toe" Groza, who has been an exclusive place-kicker, may get a chance to test his 240 pounds in the spot vacated by Blandin. . . . Then again the job may go to Ed "Earthquake" Smith, 260-pound North Carolina alumnus . . . Smith was second on the Chicago Cardinals draft list and must be some shakes as a tackle. . . . Bill Bodeker will move up if Jones stays in baseball and three newcomers—Bob Brugge, Dean Sensanbaugher and Ara Parseghian—will battle it out for right half. . . . Lou Saban is listed for conversion to an offensive center but the remainder of the Brown cast will be pretty much intact.

★ ★ ★

BROWN EXPECTS the Chicago Rockets to be the surprise team of the All-America conference. . . . The Rockets have plenty of material and Brown considers Ed McKeever a go-getter as a coach. . . . Of course, we had to get around to the possibility of the two pro football leagues getting together for a championship game. . . . This scribe had always been a booster of the Chicago Bears before coming to Mansfield and falling under the Paul Brown type of pro football spell. . . . Paul is on the executive committee of the All-America and knows a bit of the problems. . . . It is his sincere belief that the two leagues will have to get together eventually for the good of football in general, but he says, "Nothing new has come up recently about the two leagues. The National is apparently waiting until we iron out some of our troubles. And we are also waiting to see how their weaker teams stand up."

★ ★ ★

BROWN ALWAYS dwells a lot on the similarity of coaching high school and pro football. . . . His philosophy is that "Football players are bred to win and built to win. The game is played as much from the heart and mind and it is played from the physical aspects. A great team leaves no stone unturned and it must have the desire and interest of the entire community. At Massillon, youngsters are raised with the idea that sometime they can be a member of a Massillon athletic team. The newspaper and community spirit makes the Massillon teams." . . . And all of this civic spirit pays off as high school football was an $100,000 a year business when Brown left Massillon for Ohio State . . . Brown went on about high school athletes, "The players in high school are natural leaders for the rest of the kids and follow their example on the playing field and in the class rooms. The athletes have to be high-type persons."

Ex-Brownie Allows Only Two Tallies

WICHITA, Kan. — (AP) — Bob Muncrief had proof today that he is ready to join the front-line hurling staff of the Cleveland Indians.

The former St. Louis Browns hurler pitched the first seven innings of the Tribe's 6 to 5 triumph over the New York Giants yesterday and allowed only two earned runs.

He gave up seven hits and fanned five in the Tulsa, Okla., battle as the Indians narrowed the Giants' margin in their series to 6 to 5 victories.

The two clubs moved here for their next game today with Gene Bearden, Al Gettel and Lyman Linde being selected for Indian mound duty. Ray Poat, a former member of the Tribe, will open for the Giants and attempt to go the full route.

SQUEEZE RUN

Yesterday's victory was hard-earned with a squeeze bunt with the bases loaded in the ninth doing the trick. Pinch Hitter Hal Peck executed the bunt perfectly and Manager Lou Boudreau scooted home from third for the winning run.

Previously in the ninth, the Tribe pushed over the tying run when Joe Gordon was walked with the bases loaded.

Muncrief was followed to the mound by Steve Gromek, who allowed the Giants to score the tying run in the eighth and gave two costly hits in the ninth. Russ Christopher rescued him and gained credit for the victory.

Sauer's Blow Enables Reds To Win, 9-7

CHARLOTTE, N. C. — (UP) — With Hank Sauer's big bat providing the spark, the red-hot Reds of Cincinnati were sweeping through the exhibition baseball circuit today like a prairie fire.

The gigantic Sauer, standing six feet, three-and-a-half inches tall, has 10 home runs this spring and those blasts are the big reasons why the Reds have won 13 of their last 15 games. His grand-slam wallop yesterday gave Cincinnati a 9-7 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Sox got off to an early lead, but the Reds took over with eight runs in the fifth inning, four of them on Sauer's clout. Vern Stephens homered for Boston in the same frame with one man on.

Harrison Dillard Wins Indoor Thinclad Award

NEW YORK — (AP) — Harrison Dillard, the nation's No. 1 hurdler, has been selected by the New York Track Writers' association as the outstanding performer of the indoor track and field season.

Undefeated in 54 races, the Baldwin-Wallace Negro was a unanimous choice for the honor. He was the only nominee.

Baseballers Drill

The Mansfield Grays are scheduled to practice Wednesday and Thursday nights this week, on the Blue Goose field. Players seeking trials are welcome to the baseball drills.

Rival Squads Selected For Friday Grid Battle

Rival squads for the spring training football game Friday night on the high school stadium sod have been named, as the gridders taper off for the spring spectacle.

The seniors, who will play their final prep football game of their careers, are favored to win due to weight and experience advantages, but both teams are loaded with stars of the 1947 Senior high team. The contest looms as a personal battle for many of the individuals, as the seniors seek to end their careers with a victory and the underclassmen fight to make a good showing in bidding for 1948 berths.

Both teams have surprises. Each machine has been given new sets of plays to spring in the game Friday night and coaches predict a bitter, speedy struggle. The seniors will have one disadvantage, and that will be in the use of substitutes, since only nine (extras) are on the roster.

The varsity, on the other hand, can throw fresh players into the game at random, and Coach Augie Morningstar will be trying to find a winning combination for use next season.

Names familiar to Mansfield high fans in both football and basketball are sprinkled in the lineups. Nick Gagich, stellar gridder and even more brilliant in basketball, will quarterback the seniors on their single wing formation, while Ken McCallyn, a freshmen, is slated to work the T-formation for the underclassmen.

Norb Shibinski, a mate of Gagich's on the basketball team, will oppose Nick in the line, since Shibinski is a junior.

A meeting of the Tyger club will be held at the school at 7:30 Wednesday. The annual Mansfield relays and the football game Friday night will be the main topics.

Panther Officials Ponder Problem

PITTSBURGH — (UP) — University of Pittsburg officials, stymied by the school's muddled athletic situation, pondered today a recommendation to abolish the faculty committee on athletics.

A new athletic committee would be composed of four faculty members, two alumni, a varsity letterman and a senior student which would have the power to "pass on the qualifications of the director of athletics and the coaching staffs."

262 Boys In 17th Mansfield Relays

By FRITZ HOWELL, Ohio AP Sports Editor

MANSFIELD—Ohio's oldest independent track-field meet for scholastic stars pops up this week end as Coach Harry Mehock presents his 17th renewal of the far-famed Mansfield Relays.

More than 1,000 athletes, from more than 100 schools in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, West Virginia and Kentucky are expected to participate in the 18-event program. The entry list today showed 262 boys from 18 schools, but a deluge is expected the next day or so for the big meet first held in 1927.

Despite the fact no entry fee is charged, the awards list is elaborate. A 48-inch trophy goes to the team champion, with other large trophies going to the school compiling the most points in the track and field divisions.

TWENTY TROPHIES

Twenty 30-inch trophies also go to the top teams, while the individual winners get gold belt buckles, with silver for second placers, bronze for third, and ribbons for fourth and fifth. The Mansfield Tyger Booster club raised $2,500 to defray the costs.

Many of the nation's top stars have first attracted attention in the Mansfield event, among them Jesse Owens, Dave Albritton, Bob Wright, Harrison Dillard, Mel Walker, Jack Keller and John Linta.

Columbus Central was a surprise winner of last year's carnival with 31 points, Cleveland Central finishing second with 26. The meet, until last year, had lapsed for four years because of the war.

J. V. Clifford of Canton McKinley, winner of the 100 and 220-yard dashes last year, will defend his titles. Jim Jarvis of Cleveland Central's state champions, who finished second in the 1947 high jump, recently soared six feet 6½ inches to beat last year's mark by 5¼ inches.

ENTRY LIST

Today's mail included entries from Conneaut (6), Reynoldsburg (6), Osborn Bath (9), Newark (25), Springfield (31), Columbus South (29) and Canton McKinley (29).

'Bo' Newsom Sells Talents To NL Giants

NEW YORK—(UP)—Louis "Bobo" Newsom, late of the New York Yankees, Washington Senators, Philadelphia Athletics, Brooklyn Dodgers, St. Louis Browns, Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox and Chicago Cubs, has sold his talents to still another major league baseball club—the New York Giants.

Based on previous performances, he won't have to be at anything like his old time form to win a regular starting berth on the Giants.

The Giants are desperate for pitchers.

Last year their murderers' row banged out a new all-time major league record for home runs.

COULD BE THREAT

In spite of the quality of their hurling the Giants ended up fourth. This spring they've shown that the home runs are going to be just as frequent, maybe more so. Any pitching improvement would mean a definite pennant threat.

That's where Newsom comes in. He brings with him a lifetime major league record of 205 victories and 213 defeats, the bulk of both in the American league.

Newson showed with the Yankees in 1947 that he can still win if his mates score a few runs. He should like it with the Giants.

The latest transfer adds to Bobo's record as baseball's most traveled major league player. He's been involved in 15 sales or trades involving at least $100,000 in cash and 20 other ball players. He's had more terms in Washington than many congressmen—four—and is the only active player to play with all three New York clubs.

Wensloff Sold To Cleveland

NEW YORK — (AP) — Charles Wensloff, right handed pitcher who refused to sign with the New York Yankees this year, was sold today to the Cleveland Indians. The amount of cash was not disclosed.

81 Bowlers Roll In N-J Pin Tourney

A brilliant comeback, after starting with a 46 game, put Donna Schuster in first place in the Women's A division of the News-Journal head pin tournament at the Richland alleys.

Donna missed the head pin six times the first game, but missed it only once the second game for a 98 score, and then hit 72 the third game for a 216 total. Dorothy McDevitt is second with 185 and Jean Douville third with 172.

But Ginnie Rhoads, a Class B bowler, tops all women who have rolled in the meet, with a 236 total. Ginnie had seven strikes the first game after starting with three empty frames, and totaled 86. She followed with a 63 game and then tumbled 87 for her leading score.

Paul Kurtz shot his way into third place in Class B of the men's division, on a 295 total. He missed the head pin once the first game, once the second game, and then swatted the No. 1 pin every time the third game.

So far 81 bowlers have rolled, making a $20 pot for the bowlers with the leading scores, but plenty more are expected this week end, when the tournament will get past the halfway mark.

★

Jim Dunn, rolling in the Commercial 'C' league, started out fast last night with 213 and 211, but slipped a little to 181 and totaled 605 to lead the show. John Ibe, a mate, hammered 231 to start and 201 to finish, but had a sickly 141 in the middle to hold his total to 573. Yet the team lost two games —one by four pins. Chuck Roby had a 223 game and Ted LeMunyon a 211 to help turn the tide for Modern Foods.

Jerry Orock had a bad middle score of 148 but wrapped 210 and 222 around it for 580, with Joe Hetler, on the same team, getting 567 with a 213 in the middle. Tony Santora had 185, 195 and 173 for 553. J. Kuelling rocked 207 and 200, but slipped to 175 for 582, while G. Kuelling's 222 middle game was not big enough to pull him among the leaders.

Joe DeYarmon collected 552 and John Waldman 569 for other good scores.

★

Mary Dintaman topped the Women's Variety loop with 485 after a 188 finish, while Donna Schuster tumbled 464, Evelyn Mikesell 460, and Bertha Young 453. Trill Sziraki had a 187 middle game and a 475 total.

Macks Dangerous If Infield Comes Through

By LEO H. PETERSEN

NEW YORK — (UP) — Connie Mack is taking his Athletics into the 1948 American league pennant race with only seven new players on the club which finished a surprise fifth last season.

Aiming for the first division berth, the slender, 85-year-old A's leader decided to go along for the most part with veterans. As a result he did no spring housecleaning early and when he sold Relief Pitcher Russ Christopher to the Cleveland Indians 10 days ago he brought his roster down to the players limit of 25 a month before the teams break camp to head north until May 20.

However, the seven newcomers they carried from last year's eighth place club are significant. It speakes highly for the work of the department that Mack has kept the A's from straining for first division spot so.

Mack's stars in outfield and batting and pitching promises to be strong from the measure of support he has given it, doubt is whether the A's have enough to put a contender on the field from the rest of the team.

Only two of the nine players are set as key figures, right hitting Eddie Joost at short and Hank Majeski at third. Joost hit only .206 last year but he picked up by Philadelphia after a 280 hitter. Majeski was a .280 hitter.

Ferris Fain, whose .291 mark as a freshman led the A's infielders in hitting last season will take over first base when his knee is sound again, but until then it will be Rudy York, who still is not in shape, or George Binks, who also plays the outfield. Mack believes that York will settle down between now and the season's opener so that he will be in shape to play.

At second, it looks like Pete Suder, who lacks speed will get the call over Skeeter Webb and that's the spot which may prove the most vulnerable in the Philadelphia setup. Both have been around long before and there is no reason to believe that they won't fall short of the mark again.

Of the eight infielders Mack kept counting Binks as an outfielder, the newcomers York, Fain, Majeski, Joost, Suder, Webb and Hal Wagner also decided by other A's and are to be used only in emergencies.

There is a promising rookie outfielder in the league, William Demas, a .328 hitter with Asheville.

The other players new to the A's are Don White, the outfielder drafted from San Francisco where he hit .292 last year and two pitchers, Lou Brissie and Alex Kellner.

White will be a utility outfielder along with Binks. The regular gardners will be Elmer Valo in right, Barney McCosky in center and Sam Chapman in left. McCosky surprised last year by hitting .328 while Valo hit an even .300. Chapman, however, slumped off to .252 but he still hit the long ball and if he could get his average near the 300 mark it would give the Athletics one of the better outfields in the league.

Brissie, who won 23 games with Savannah last year, will be a regular starter with Phil Marchildon, Bill (No-Hit) McCahan, Bob Savage, Dick Fowler and Carl Schieb. Marchildon won 19 games last year while McCahan, one of the most promising hurlers in the loop, came up with 10 victories, including a no-hitter against the Senators. Savage won eight games, Fowler 12 and Schieb four.

Back of them will be Bill Dietrich, Kellner an 11-game winner with Birmingham last season and Joe Coleman. Dietrich will be used exclusively in relief as a replacement for Christopher. Coleman and Kellner will get starting chances but are more likely to see bull-pen service.

Rounding out the squad of 25 are the three catchers, Buddy Rosar, the No. 1 man, with Mike Guerra and Herman Franks to help him out.

$2,000,000 Bequest Fails To Excite Cafe Proprietress

MERCER, Wis.—(INP)—Most people would become pretty excited if a rich relative left them $2,000,000. But not Mrs. Tony Giannunzio. She's too happy making spaghetti for her restaurant customers.

"I make good spaghetti," she said. "And my two kids—they help me a lot. I'm not hoping for $2,000,000."

Mrs. Giannunzio, who is 45, never bothered to investigate when she was told last year that an uncle had left her most of his $2,000,000 estate.

She just kept on making spaghetti and taking care of the "kids." She was too busy and too happy to worry about money. The "kids" are a daughter, 25, and a son, 16. Mrs. Giannunzio is separated from her husband.

"I let it go during the summer and winter," she said. "I heard a broadcast over the radio about it, too. But I didn't think about it until a month ago when I got help from a lawyer."

She said she didn't know what she would do if he got the money for her. "Maybe go to South America and claim it," she said. It really didn't matter.

Her sister wrote from Italy that their wealthy uncle, Filipono D'Santonio, died in Brazil, leaving $2,000,000. Mrs. Giannunzio reportedly received most of the estate.

She received no official word from Brazil, where D'Santonio owned a large coffee plantation. She never took the trouble to write but trustees apparently tried to reach her by means of the radio broadcast.

Her lawyer has contacted Italian authorities. They are checking on the will.

"If we get the money, fine," she said. "But if we don't, everything will still be fine."

Two Galionites Jailed and Fined

GALION— Delbert Douce of Galion was fined $15 and costs and given a 10-day jail sentence when tried in Mayor H. H. Hartmann's court, Monday morning. Douce was charged with drunken driving.

The mayor also heard Judd Traxler of Galion on a drunk and disorderly charge and fined him $5 and costs. He was given a five-day jail sentence.

3—In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear Mother and Grandmother, Mrs. Eva Reiner who passed away April 13, 1943, 5 years ago today.

Sad and sudden was the call of one so dear and loved by all.
A smiling face, a heart of gold.
One of the best this world could hold.
In our hearts her memory lingers
Always fond and true.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Hidden tears still often flow.
Memories keep her always near us.
There's not a day that passes
We do not think of her.
We did not know the pain she felt,
Or hear her final sigh.
We only know, she went away
Without a last goodbye.

Senior High Retains Its Place on Accredited List

Mansfield Senior high school again has received accredited rating from the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, it was announced today by high school officials.

This rating means that Mansfield Senior high has met all the standards set up by the association, which is one of five such regional groups in the country.

These standards include: teachers with degrees; correct teacher-pupil loads and an adequate library, Glenn Rohleder, principal, said.

A correct teacher load means that no more than 30 pupils must be in a class, that the teacher must not teach more than five out of six periods during the day, and teachers must teach the subjects in which they have majored.

"We've had a clean slate so far and want to keep it that way," Rohleder said.

Today's Quiz On Cancer

In connection with the current drive for funds for Mansfield's recently established cancer clinic at General hospital, staff members are presenting a series of pertinent questions and answers on the second most fatal disease in the United States.

Q—Is there any disgrace to having cancer?

A—No. The disgrace is not doing something about it early enough.

Q—Is cancer caused by a germ?

A—No. It is an uncontrollable growth.

Q—What is the chief cause of death among women between the ages of 35-55?

A—Cancer.

Tax Revenue Shows Increase

Collections of first-half of 1947 personal property taxes amounted to $322,770 today, County Treasurer Charles C. Payne announced.

That compared with $251,900 in first-half tax collections for the first-half of last year. Last day for making payments without penalty was Saturday.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said the increased collection this year was due to an increased tax rate and a higher valuation of property.

Britain Sees War Danger

LONDON—(INS)—Britain will spend two billion, 900 million dollars on the navy, army, and air force this year and $28,000,000 has been allotted for civil defense.

These are impressive figures for a country of England's size and population, and they accurately reflect British awareness of the danger of war.

This might be described as a national feeling that, although an actual "shooting war" may be remote, the possibility of such a conflagration seems to increase daily.

Leaders Face Long, Hard Tasks

India Learns of Freedom 'the Hard Way'

By G. M. KELLY

NEW DELHI, India—(AP)—Newly independent India is learning about freedom the hard way.

Release from foreign rule did not bring the bubbling joy in liberty which visionaries had expected. The bloodshed, hardships and economic upset of communal riots have laid a heavy hand on the land.

Rarely do you find among the common people a feeling that freedom has brought much, if any, improvement in their way of life.

The hard-headed men who led India to freedom are not surprised by this. They knew that building freedom and consolidating it would be long, hard tasks.

But India's leaders do say they are making progress. They concede it is small, as measured against all that remains to be done. Their goal is a people's government with "democracy, but not too much of it," as Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru described it in an Independence day speech last August 15, when British rule ended.

Nehru told the Associated Press in an interview:

"The next two years will be very hard for India. The three years following will be hard in the sense of hard work without much recompense."

Those five years, he said, should lead his people to a point where they can see and enjoy the fruits of emancipation.

NO SIMPLE TASK

Nehru says that attaining the freedom and prosperity for which he hopes will be no simple, overnight task. "There are vast problems, many of which have lain for centuries," he said. "We are tackling them now."

He said India's longest stride down the freedom road has been smashing of autocratic rule by the Maharajahs of most of the subcontinent's 606 large and small princely states.

STRIPPING PRINCES

Systematically his government is stripping the princes of power. The states are being brought within the Indian union. A handful of the Maharajahs are becoming constitutional rulers. The vast majority, however, are being stripped of all power although allowed to retain their titles and draw pensions.

Significantly Nehru said it is up to the people of the states to determine how long to continue paying those gratuities.

In calculating the ground India has gained or held since her freedom day one point sometimes is overlooked. Through all the rioting and turmoil of the last seven months her currency has remained among the most stable in the world.

The government, which looked pretty shaky at the peak of the communal rioting, has strengthened its position. It is believed generally that having weathered three big crises, the cabinet is more strongly placed. It survived the shock of the riots and mass migration of millions of refugees. An often predicted fight between Nehru and Deputy Prime Minister Vallabhbhai Patel for control of government never materialized. Even the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi failed to topple the cabinet.

Still, diplomats and others sometimes wonder whether the cabinet could survive an adverse ruling by the United Nations on India's appeal over the Kashmir fighting. They wonder, too, what the next government would be like. India is short of public figures of proved stature.

WRITING CONSTITUTION

More than a running start has been made on the drafting of a constitution for the country, despite the emergency problems growing out of the riots. The same men drawing the constitution serve also in the parliament.

The constitution is scheduled for completion before the end of summer—within a year of the end of foreign rule. Meanwhile the country operates under emergency laws. These look much like the old British laws under which India was so restless. And they are applied much the way the British applied them.

Persons believed to be dangerous if left at large still are being arrested and held indefinitely without trial as they were under British rule. Several organizations, including the RSSS (Hindu Youth Society) and the Moslem League National guard, have been declared outlaw organizations. They are accused of fomenting communal trouble.

Several thousand persons have been seized in roundups of RSSS members alone. Recently labor leaders accused of promoting strikes and some communist leaders have been seized and held without charge.

It is generally expected that the communists will be outlawed across the country, as they already are in Indian Bengal.

A modest start has been made toward improving the lot of the working man. Efforts to get better wages and working conditions have been slow and marked by numerous strikes, despite the government's pleas for a truce on work stoppages to relieve shortages.

INDUSTRY COMPLAINS

Socialists and communists allege that bigger gains have been made by the wealthy. Industry complains that it is hampered in long range planning because the government is vague in defining how far it intends to swing toward socialism.

The government has only dipped into the problem of breaking the rich landlords' hold on agricultural labor and resources—an avowed objective. The slow progress has been another source of discontent, especially among tenant farmers and socialist leaders.

The parliament has ordered a big program of hydro-electric development designed to raise farm production, provide power for industrial expansion and control of disastrous floods.

A diplomatic force has been sent abroad to represent India before the world. From earliest hours of independence India has given every indication of intent to lead the east. She vigorously championed Indonesia's fight against Dutch rule. She is among the leaders of virtually every plan to knit Asian countries more closely.

But the top men in government concede that they have as yet achieved only a fraction of what must be done. They are pretty much agreed that lack of experience in government has been a handicap. Nehru, Patel and other big names in the government spent years as political prisoners in British jails.

When freedom came the alternatives were to let amateurs run the country and learn while doing, or hire foreigners to do it. The inexperienced patriots who had led the country to freedom tackled the job.

BLUNDERS ADMITTED

Snap judgments have been made by them—and repented. In a land where "face" is so important, they have been surprisingly willing to admit their blunders.

In providing emergency care for millions made homeless by communal riots which they had failed to control, the leaders are creating tremendous new problems.

New slums spring up with government help or tolerance in every city where the refugees take haven. These waifs of the riots crowd together in conditions inviting epidemic diseases. The government says the crime rate increases with every such concentration. It has been unable to solve housing shortages and plan permanent resettlement.

Black markets flourish practically everywhere and in practically every commodity. Food remains short and rationed. Education and facility for it still are privileges of the relatively few.

The press still is censored internally as it was by the British. The newspapers are forbidden to publish news of the investigation of the assassination of Mohandas Gandhi. They are accountable for what they publish about communal discord. They were barred from printing more than a terse report of Patel's recent heart attack. Relationship between India and Pakistan remains touchy.

There is much talk that armed strife may be the solution of India's efforts to break the system under which a Mohammedan minority rules the princely state of Hyderabad, whose ruler has refused to accede to the Indian union.

These are things the leaders themselves see on the "no progress" or "little progress" part of their ledger. But they say they are learning. And the people, despite some grumbling, seem disposed to give them a chance to show what they can do.

Legion Auxiliary Names Poppy Day Poster Winners

THE American Legion auxiliary met Monday evening at the Legion home with the president, Mrs. James Brownscombe, in charge. Immediately before the meeting the membership committee was entertained with a dinner at the Evergreens cafeteria. Each member was given a gift of stationery for the work she had done during the past year.

The committee chairmen gave their reports for the year. Miss Marie Kalbfleisch, junior auxiliary chairman, said that they had made Easter favors and given them to the People's hospital.

Mrs. Hollis Moorhead, Poppy day chairman, reported that the posters the junior auxiliary made had been judged by Mrs. Wilbur Hegnauer and Richard James. The two first prizes were won by Shirley Boyd and Barbara Young. The club voted to give $250 to the maintenance of the Girl Scout camp.

The group will sponsor one boy to Buckeye Boys' State held at Ohio Wesleyan university in June. John C. Stout, teacher at Mansfield Senior high school, and Boys State chairman, will choose the boy for them to send.

A letter was read from the Veterans' hospital in Tucson, Arizona, thanking the Auxiliary and Mothers' club for the chair cushions made and sent to them.

The next meeting will be April 26 with Mrs. Max Lewis, Pan-American chairman, and Mrs. Carl Kahl, child welfare chairman, in charge of the program. The social hour is in charge of Mrs. Robert Jones and Mrs. Homer Shafer and their committees.

New Deal Policies Encouraged Communism, Taft Charges

Claims Dem Rule Should Come to End

Senator Delivers Talk By Telephone

TOLEDO —(AP)— Sen. Robert A. Taft told a women's organization meeting here last night that the present administration started to fight communism only after a Republican Congress came into power.

Ohio's Republican presidential aspirant had intended to make a major address of Ohio delegate campaign against Minnesota's former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, but legislative business detained him in Washington.

In order not to disappoint the thousand members of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's organizations which had pledged its support to him, he delivered a short speech over long-distance telephone.

"The present New Deal administration encouraged communism by establishing Russia in a position of power," he said. "It was only when the Republicans came into a majority of the Congress that the administration began to fight communism. We can only prevail over communism by stopping the apologies being made by our present government. We can do this by electing a Republican administration."

Asserting the voters' decision next November "will determine for generations the direction in which our country will go," Taft said bureaus could not be abolished or administrative policies changed without a Republican President, "no matter how detrimental they (the bureaus may be to the welfare of America."

Ohio's junior senator, John W. Bricker, assailed the Russian iron curtain and charged the present administration also had resorted to its use.

He said it had kept secret many wartime agreements with Russia and had refused to let Congress examine the loyalty records of many federal employes.

"If their records won't stand the light of day, let's fire every one of them," he shouted.

Asserting no one can be "a good Republican who is not a good American," Bricker said he would like to trade some quarter million "of those in our midst who want to destroy our form of government and trade them for a million of those patriots now behind the iron curtain who would like to come to this country."

Senator Millikin (R-Col.), a native Ohioan from Butler county, also spoke.

Voting Light In Illinois

CHICAGO —(UP)— Illinois residents voted today in what state historical experts said was probably the most "cut-and-dried" primary election in Illinois history.

Voters were to nominate candidates for U. S. senator, governor, Lt. governor, secretary of state, attorney general, auditor, treasurer, representatives in Congress, and general assembly.

They also selected national nominating convention delegates and state central committeemen.

In all but two instances candidates for statewide offices were running without opposition. And in those two the opposition was merely a "token."

Mansfielder Helps Recover Stolen Car

A car owned by Willie Robinson, 68 East Third street, stolen from Robinson's home early yesterday, was recovered at 6 p. m. by Medina highway patrolmen.

Tom Raklets, 462 Woodward avenue, told Mansfield police that a car answering the description of Robinson's car was in a ditch on U. S. Route 42, north of West Salem. Medina state highway patrolmen found the car out of gas and with the battery dead.

Ohio Penitentiary Has Fire Scare

Warden Ralph Alvis reported damage from the break, in a dormitory, was slight and no one was injured.

Hybrid Corn Finds Favor In Midwest

South Outstripped In Planting Seed

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The 12 North Central states have far outstripped the South, their closest corn-producing competitor, in the percentage of corn acreage planted with high-yield hybrid seed.

The agriculture department reports this in its latest bulletin on the feed situation.

The north central group has steadily increased its use of hybrid seed corn from virtually zero in 1933 to 92.5 per cent of all its corn acreage planted last year. This area contains some 65 per cent of total U.S. corn acreage.

The southern states, with about 30 per cent of U S. corn acreage, have only 27.2 per cent of their cornland planted to hybrid seed.

YIELDS RISE

The result, said the department, is that while yields in the north central region have risen about one third above levels of the 1920's, those in the south have increased only moderately.

Yields in the north central area have been averaging close to 40 bushels an acre in the past few years. The department said a large share of the gain is attributable to use of hybrids.

The department report said if U. S. farmers carry out March 1 plans for corn acreage this year, it will be about 15 per cent under the 1920-1929 average.

It added:

"But if nearly three-fourths of the 1948 acreage is planted with hybrid seed, as expected, and if the growing season is average, production this year will be about 10 per cent higher than the average of the twenties."

Why Not Compromise Before Strike?

COMPROMISE of the pension plan issue, which is expected to bring prompt resumption of coal production, seems to have been handled in an expeditious way after agreement on Senator Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, as an "impartial" third trustee for the Miners' Welfare Fund.

The wonder is why some such sensible solution of the controversy could not have been reached without the drastic procedure of shutting down mines, throwing around 600,000 people out of work, and bringing the nation to the verge of industrial paralysis.

The stubbornly defiant attitude of John L. Lewis has never been such as to encourage friendly negotiations, nor have coal operators, for that mater, shown inclination to adapt themselves to changing conditions in labor-management relations—as in the present instance when Ezra Van Horn, representing the operators, voted against provisions of the pension plan approved by Lewis and Bridges.

Under the compromise, it will be required that miners reach the age of 62, after 20 years service, before being entitled to retire on $100 a month pension, whereas the original demand by Lewis was for 60 as retirement age, while operators insisted on placing retirement with pension at 65.

Coal mining is a peculiarly arduous vocation, which involves dangers and disagreeable features that do not tend to attract young recruits, despite high wages. Nor are miners likely to continue through as many years of efficient production as in some other lines of work. Twenty years of such service would seem to be a reasonable expectancy in the underground work of actual coal mining and the idea of an assured income after retirement from a job that has extended through twenty or more years is in accord with a trend in private employment and also evidenced inadequately in the social security provisions of federal law.

Strikes, and threats of strikes, have harassed the coal producing industry year after year, and it seems none too soon to start setting up safeguards against continuance of such procedure as John L. Lewis has persistently resorted to before reaching at customary compromise between extreme demands and sometimes less than reasonable offers.

Encouraging Response To UJA

SUCCESS of the initial phase of the United Jewish Appeal for funds in the Mansfield area seems to be indicative of the general support being given the campaign throughout the nation. Locally $56,000 had been paid or pledged toward the $75,000 goal on the night the appeal opened officially.

This is truly a remarkable record and it is a symbol of widespread support of the objectives of the national goal of $250,000,000.

These purposes are to help the displaced persons in Europe, now living under conditions that are a shame to civilization; to aid the Jewish citizens of Palestine, now fighting for their political lives; and to assist immigrants into the U. S. to become established economically and socially within the pattern of American life.

Death Takes Another Lifelong Citizen

IF ONE WORD were to be chosen to express an outstanding trait of Frank A. Voegele that word would be "affability," for seldom does one find the quality of unaffected courtesy more clearly evidenced than in the attitude of Mr. Voegele in all of his many associations.

Always there was a cheery greeting for friends and acquaintances, and an unhurried manner that gave time for at least a brief chat on some subject of common interest. Native of Mansfield, Mr. Voegele's interests and activities touched on every phase of community life—civic, financial, religious, fraternal and social—with lively appreciation of baseball as recreational entertainment.

Always having the appearance of robust health, it was a shock to many friends to learn of Mr. Voegele's hospitalization from a heart ailment, and it was with deep regret that they learned of his death—for he was among those who had been so much a part of Mansfield for so many years that he seemed to have a fixed place in community affairs.

Another Jefferson Biography Coming

TODAY'S observance of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson is marked by appearance of the first volume of the most extensive life of Jefferson ever published. The author is Dumas Malone, professor of American history at Columbia University and well qualified to undertake the task.

The complete work, to comprise four volumes, may prove to rank, in importance as well as size, with such masterpieces of American biography as Albert J. Beveridge's life of John Marshall, and the lives of Lincoln by Nicolay and Hay, Beveridge and Sandburg.

It is strange that no full scale life of Jefferson has heretofore been undertaken. Jefferson's gospel of democracy has meant more to American life than the teachings of any other president except Washington and Lincoln.

Women Voters Active In Italy

A CORRESPONDENT writes from Rome that women of all the important political parties in Italy are carrying on a vigorous campaign for the votes of the fair sex in next Sunday's elections. Moreover, he says, there are about 25 per cent more women than men on the lists of eligible voters, a situation lending considerable weight to the feminine vote.

All the familiar tactics of electioneering are listed as being in use by the women politicians, including speech making, war working and the rest.

Although the New World is supposed to be, among other things, a bastion of the emancipation of woman, politics is generally considered to be man's business in this enlightened country. Apparently it is not so in Italy where the women have a comfortable margin of control.

Clipped quip: "When the white men discovered this country, the Indians were running it. There were no taxes. There was no debt. The women did all the work. And the white men thought they could improve on a system like that!"

The Whole Pitching Staff Is Seeing Some Action Today.

Some Lessons Seen In Wisconsin Upset

CHICAGO — The most important lesson the Wisconsin upset ought to teach is that the so-called intelligence services of candidates hardly deserve that name. The MacArthur people were very confident. They expected a staggering plurality of the votes and were mildly confident of a sweep.

They assumed, as they had no right to assume, that the names of LaFollette and Zimmerman would elicit votes in themselves—especially that of Zimmerman, who has repeatedly swept the state. But these candidates running state-wide fell behind the almost unknown low men on the Stassen slate. Hence, it is shown that politicians however appealing in their own right, cannot transfer their support to another candidate or cause.

It can now be told that Dewey, back in New York, received almost absurd information about the Wisconsin situation. When MacArthur entered the race, he should have withdrawn. But he was told that he could win.

Later, two weeks before the primary, his sources of information began pouring in the news that MacArthur was due to win a majority, perhaps a clean sweep of the delegates. It was assumed that Stassen might get the four delegates from the northwest part of the state, but that he was weak in the southeast. Dewey's hope, then, was that he might pickup enough in the southeast to top Stassen's delegates in the northwest.

* * *

AN IMPORTANT factor was wholly overlooked. Over the nation, Stassen is already very strong among college people and with those whose ties and memories with and of their alma mater are strong.

Universities like that of Wisconsin are literally bursting at the seams with students, most of whom are of voting age. The people of Wisconsin, perhaps more than those of any other state, are university conscious.

Much of Stassen's enormous vote can be attributed to that. He slaughtered his opponents in and around Madison, the seat of the university. Dewey, in his major speech in the state, neglected this asset of Stassen and aimed a mighty blast at Russia. Thus, he merely divided the Polish vote in Milwaukee with MacArthur.

Dewey deserves to have it said that when he decided to go to Wisconsin he knew he would take a terrible beating. Wisconsin calls itself "Vacationland." It was no vacation for Dewey! It was more of a Custer massacre. His miscalculation was the identity of his conqueror.

He knew, moreover, that he would lose more prestige by going and losing than by staying at home and losing.

He went because he did not want to desert his loyal Wisconsin managers. Dewey has faults but disloyalty to his supporters is not one of them.

Over all, a profoundly important reflection on the result is in order. The Dewey and MacArthur campaigns vied in denunciation of Soviet Russia. But there was little that was constructive in their formulas for peace. Stassen was tough with communism, but he offered some constructive suggestions for peace with honor.

Somehow, the Minnesota man appealed to the deep longing of Americans for something short of war. And, unlike MacArthur, he offered some real suggestions about dealing with American domestic problems. That is a lesson that all candidates might ponder.

When comment from MacArthur was sought, he answered that he was "indefinitely unavailable." That might be an appropriate epitaph for his candidacy.

Managing Husbands

By ELSIE ROBINSON

EVER SINCE Eve had that little conversation with the snake in the Garden of Eden wives have thought it was their divine right and privilege to manage their husbands. And have raised the dickens as a consequence. For if there's anything that will wreck a romance before the honeymoon is well started, it's management.

First off, any man who will allow himself to be shoved around isn't worth his keep. He's a poor excuse for a male if he can't plan his own life for himself and his wife will know it before the wedding ring is a day old.

Nothing infuriates a woman as much as having her own way — unless it is not having it. And nothing makes a woman feel so belittled and cheated as a meek husband who jumps at the snap of the finger.

Of course this theory that the good pastor's blessing will make two different people into one has caused many a divorce. It might work if the newlyweds could ever decide which one they wanted to be but they never can.

* * *

TAKE BILL for example. For ten years Bill has been smoking the same old pipe only to find that Flossie can't bear the smell of it. And Flossie simply can't bear to sleep in a bed unless it's all doodled up with fancy embroidery, which Bill loathes.

Can't they compromise and go to the movies instead of quarreling, or sleep in twin beds? Or listen to the radio? Perish the thought! Neither will give an inch. Each one wants to live his or her own life in his or her particular way and no other way will do.

No, two souls can't mix as one, and what a blessing it is that they can't! Could anything be more revolting than a lifetime spent with another person who has exactly the same thoughts, the same likes and dislikes, the same habits?

Why did such different people marry in the first place? Because they were different and their very differences made them attractive . . . drew them to each other like two magnets.

No force on earth is as powerful as that of romantic love and yet the first moment the magic words are said we go right to work and tear down everything that was unique and charming and individual about our union.

Does that make sense? No it doesn't, but whoever expected love to make sense?

Truman Confident He Will Be Nominee

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—President Truman remains coolly confident that he will head the Democratic ticket this year, despite both Southern-Northern opposition.

He made this quite clear during a chat with young Representative George Smathers of Florida the other day, when Smathers, accompanied by Leonce Legendre, assistant adjutant of the American Legion, invited him to address the Legion national convention next October in Miami. Without batting an eye, Truman replied:

"I'd certainly like to be there, but I'm going to be in a reasonably hot political campaign at that time."

Because of this, he added, some people might think he was using the Legion convention as a political platform. However, when Smathers and Legendre suggested he could make a strictly non-political speech, preferably on preparedness, the President promised to think it over.

In gay mood, he took a Legion service cap from his desk drawer and donned it at a jaunty angle. Pointing to the insignia, "Independence, Mo., Legion Post 21," he remarked:

"That's my real post—No. 21—though I also belong to Post 340 in Kansas City. I'd prefer to have No. 21 on my convention certificate, if that can be arranged."

Note—The President also showed his guests some of the recent gadgets he has received through the mails, including a bow tie that lights up with the slogan, "Elect Harry Truman."

Roosevelt's Grave.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT'S grave continues to attract people from all over the world. It also continues to attract the interest of the governments of the world.

Just recently, the Chinese government founded a National Chinese Library, and has written to the Roosevelt Memorial Foundation asking for some of FDR's personal possessions, also some radio recordings of his voice, especially his speech, "Rendezvous With Destiny," and every type of book written about Roosevelt.

Another interesting request came from Liberia recently—permission to dedicate one wing of a new Liberian hospital to FDR.

Who Got to Berlin First?

COL. ALEXANDER JELISAROV, Russian delegate on the Allied Control Council of Berlin, forgot one important fact when he boasted that the Russians alone liberated Europe and that if the British were worried about Berlin. "Why didn't they get there first?"

He forgot that, three years ago today, American troops were in Potsdam, the suburbs of Berlin. Suddenly, the day after President Roosevelt's death, they were ordered out, back to the River Elbe.

The order came after vigorous almost savage protests by the Russians claiming that the Red Army, not the American Army was to occupy Berlin. This commitment apparently had been made at Yalta.

If American troops had remained in Berlin, the present dynamite-laden situation in that city might have been different.

However, though we can't turn back the clock, it is important to recall that at that time the USA was leaning over backward to cooperate with the Russians — not slapping them down as claimed by the boys around Henry Wallace.

Also, it's important to note that Stalin had laid his political plans very carefully for the future. He was supposed to take Berlin by a certain date. Instead, his offensive delayed to take Vienna—which he also wanted. Then when the American Army, pushing ahead with the sole motive of winning the war in a hurry, got to the edge of Berlin, Stalin sent one of the most savage notes in history to FDR.

Roosevelt received it the day before he died. It was answered for him later.

Oil Lobby Needs Dough.

MORE than one lobbyist is eagerly watching the row between California congressmen and California state officials over the question of how one phase of the oil lobby is going to be paid.

When California congressmen heard that California taxpayers were to be nicked $25,000 to pay for a high-powered Washington publicity agent, plus the expenses of State Attorney General Fred Hauser, they held a protest meeting. Congressmen Dick Welch of San Francisco and John Phillips of Banning were appointed a committee to urge Governor Warren to veto the $25,000.

They phoned him immediately. Warren was ill. Three times since they have tried. Up to this writing, no luck.

Meanwhile, Everett Mattoon, deputy attorney general of California called on Welch in high dither, explained that the money had already been spent for the expenses of California's legal staff to come to Washington. Also $500 a week was promised to Eugene Kelly, Washington ex-newsman, for high-powered tidelands-oil publicity.

"The money might be necessary," growled Welch, "but which is most important—the money or votes? You better forget about the money."

He argued that news of the lobbying fund had already caused a lot of damage.

Mattoon tried to belittle the statement of Senator John Evan, Los Angeles Republican, that the fund would be used to pay luncheon checks for midwestern congressmen in Washington.

"Any explanation you might have," snapped Welch, "couldn't be made on the floor of the House."

Worried, Mattoon flew back to Sacramento to try to neutralize the California delegation's attempted phone calls to Governor Warren.

Assignment: America

Entrance Into New Era

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—Its four huge propellors chewing savagely at the air, the big plane lurched down the runway, finally became airborne and roared up over the Potomac river.

It wheeled and circled in the sky, and then pointed its blunt nose toward the morning sun and settled down to a steady reach for altitude out over the sea.

Inside the plane, we relaxed, loosened belts, took off Mae Wests and finally lighted cigarets and looked around at one another.

Mostly we were in uniform, men bound back to Europe after home leave, or else going over for the first time. But there were some who were not in uniform, and even some in uniform who would never see a battle. They were men on a mission, and we know the message they carried.

They were diplomatic and military envoys, on their way to reassure the allied chieftains that America's conduct in the war would not be changed—that everything would go ahead as planned.

For that was three years ago today, Friday, April 13, 1945, and Franklin Delano Roosevelt had died the afternoon before. . . .

All through that trip, as the big plane touched briefly at Newfoundland and the Azores and finally Paris, there was talk of what would happen now. Mostly the talk turned to the postwar domestic effects of the president's death, for no one doubted—at that date—that the war soon would be won.

There was little agreement about what would happen at home, however. Pro- and anti-Roosevelts were about evenly divided in that one plane-load.

But everybody agreed that this was the end of an era.

Today, three years later, there certainly can be no doubt that it was the end of a political era—an era which began that blustery November day in 1932 when the extras hit the streets, their headlines shouting that Franklin D. Roosevelt had won in a landslide.

* * *

What Leadership Next?

IN THE fifteen years that followed, there was only one leader of the Democratic party. And, for that matter, although the Republican leadership shifted from time to time, there was only one standard policy of G.O.P. leadership—anti-Roosevelt.

Thus, each election, the issues were clear and the lines sharply drawn.

Today, you need go no further than the primary balloting in Nebraska to see the changes that the end of an era have brought.

Behind the scramble for Republican convention delegates lies the story of the inner conflict which has split the ranks of the Democratic party. With no man yet certain of being the Democratic nominee, there remains the question of which Republican can best run against the eventual candidate.

And the conviction has grown that almost any Republican stands a likely chance to win—so the line has formed on the right for the hopefuls.

But even the issues within the parties are not clear, as has been repeatedly proved in the final, hard-fought days of the Nebraska primary campaign.

* * *

Period of Uncertainty.

WITH the old era dead, and its political regime collapsed, there remains the question of who shall ramrod the new one. Will he be a liberal or a conservative? Will he be a civilian or a military man? Will he be, to use a couple of old worn-out words, an isolationist or an interventionist?

Before the Wisconsin primary, the hopefuls tended to turn to the political lieutenants of the past decade for their campaigns and their answers. Now, they know better. When you change an era, the sometimes-sleeping people arouse and take a hand.

So the candidates have campaigned personally, making pre-convention appearances the like of which haven't been seen since the 1920's.

In addition, they have hired poll-takers by the thousands, practically flooding Nebraska with ubiquitous men and women who go around asking questions. And when they compared the results, they found they still didn't have anything definite.

Even the Nebraska results won't settle anything definitely. It's still some time until conventions, and even longer until election.

And it takes time for the needs of the people to set the political mold of a new era—replacing the one which ended three years ago yesterday.

Speaking of Your Health

Correcting Heart Defects

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

UNFORTUNATELY, some children come into the world poorly fitted for life by reason of what might be called "structural" defects in the heart and the large blood vessels leading from it. In other words, the heart and its vessels are not formed after the usual pattern and hence their performance cannot be up to par. Such defects may not endanger life, but in nearly every case they will interfere with robust living.

In the past there was little that could be done about them. Very recently, however highly skilled surgeons have perfected several operations for the correction of some of these defects.

It is still not possible to correct all, but whenever one of these heart defects is present a careful study should be made by the doctor to determine whether it is of the type that surgery can benefit.

One Defect.

One of these defects which responds well to operation is known as patent ductus arteriosus.

Normally, the blood which comes from the heart to the large artery, known as the aorta, is carried thence through smaller and smaller vessels to the entire body. In patent ductus arteriosus, however, there is a kind of short circuiting of the blood to the lungs at the expense of all other tissues.

Instead of traveling its normal course, the blood is allowed to pass from the aorta into the artery which goes to the lungs by way of a blood vessel that is always open before birth. Ordinarily, this vessel closes within a few weeks after birth.

Why it should fail to close in a few babies, we do not know, but when it does the condition is called patent (or open) ductus arteriosus.

The signs of this condition consist of a loud heart murmur or sound which occurs with the beating of the heart. A thrill is also felt over the heart. The pulse pressure is increased. The pulse pressure is the difference between the pressure when the heart contracts and when it is relaxed. The child with this condition is usually underweight and is unable to exercise as vigorously as a normal child though the heart itself is only moderately enlarged.

Patent Duct.

To correct this condition, an operation is performed in which the open channel or patent duct is tied off. This will, of course, keep the blood from being carried to the lungs from the aorta and establish normal circulation.

Not all cases will require an operation, since the defect may not greatly affect health and growth. If, however, the child is underweight, if the heart is somewhat enlarged and the child cannot exercise normally, it is likely that, as time passes, he will become more and more handicapped. In such instances, operation probably should be carried out.

Ignorant But Honest.

The Gallup poll revealed last week that 49 per cent of the American people know that Joe Louis is going to defeat Joe Walcott in their heavyweight championship bout next June. Thirty-six per cent of the people are equally positive that Walcott is going to win. Fifteen per cent don't know.

It is the ignorant 15 per cent who intrigue us. They are the elite minority—the honest, open-minded few who gave the only correct answer to the question. Of course, if Louis wins, 49 per cent will claim that they were right, and if Walcott makes the grade this time, 36 per cent will say, "What did I tell you?" But either way, the positive 85 per cent will be vindicated by accident. Unless the fight has been fixed, there is only one right answer to Dr. Gallup's question: "I don't know."—Akron-Beacon Journal.

President Cuts Weight For Battle

Vitality Equal To Younger Man

By ERNEST B. VACCTRO

WASHINGTON—(AP) —President Truman is getting down to fighting trim for the 1948 campaign after closing the books on his turbulent third year in office.

To a man his intimates say he isn't even considering suggestions from within his dissension-swept party that he step aside in favor of some other Democrat for the presidential nomination.

His physician, Brig. General Wallace H. Graham, is keeping close tab on Mr. Truman's weight to get him ready for a lot of travelling and a lot of speechmaking before the November election.

Graham says the President—who will be 64 May 8—has the vitality of many men 10 years or more younger.

The President's almost daily walks in the vicinity of the White House are just a part of his attack against a tendency to add weight. He is walking in the afternoon most of the time now instead of before breakfast.

SWIMS OFTEN

He swims three or four afternoons a week in the White House pool, using a "Missouri sidestroke." Because he must wear his glasses, he swims with his head out of the water.

His fight to keep trim includes regular rub-downs, too, but it is at the table where the hardest fight must be made.

Associates say the President eats sparingly. At the same time, Dr. Graham is always on the lookout for what he calls "dietary indiscretions." He cringes if he sees the President indulge in highly-spiced or other hard-to-digest foods at banquets.

CUTS HIS WEIGHT

Mr. Truman weighed about 167 pounds when he entered the White House that solemn afternoon of April 12, 1945, when word came of the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt at Warm Springs. He could still wear his World War I uniform.

The confinement of the White House has cut down his activity. Weight has edged up on him. At one time he tipped the scales at 179.

He started getting out of the White House more and more frequently for two-mile walks. He pushed back his plate earlier.

Before long, under Graham's careful supervision, he had brought the weight down to 172. There he has kept it for months, give or take a pound or two occasionally.

The President's gray hair is thinner than it was three years ago. There are a few more lines in his face. But there is no evidence of advancing age in the 120-steps-a-minute army pace he sets in his walks.

When he sees newsmen—which is often, since he attends many dinners and has frequent ceremonies at the White House to which they are called in—the President is as cheerful and friendly as ever. His grin is ever-present.

SPEAKS HERE—Rev. Joseph W. Frease comes to Mansfield Tuesday to speak at the first of four events commemorating the 100th anniversary of the First English Lutheran Sunday school. He will speak in the auditorium. His talk will be followed by an exhibit of old Sunday school records, pictures and books in the church parlors. Refreshments will be served by members of the Juftak class and centennial souvenirs will be distributed. Rev. Frease is executive secretary of the Luther League of America. He will talk on the subject, "What a Live Sunday School Means to the Church."

Paul Revere Rode 'Dobbin,' Poet Insists

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A Bostonian has set Congressman J. Harry McGregor and Mayor James A. Rhodes right on the name of Paul Revere's horse.

It's "Dobbin," said Amico J. Barone, executive director of the Massachusetts development and industrial commission.

Rhodes last week released a song about the "Freedom Horse." In it he chided historians for never naming the nag Revere rode on his famous "The Redcoats Are Coming" dash.

Rep. McGregor of the 17th Ohio district introduced the words last week in the Congressional Record. Then came Barone, chuckling over all the furor.

He sent this little rhyme to Rhodes:

"Listen, Ohioans, and you shall hear
Of the horse that carried Paul Revere.
Dobbin, they called him, E. Taylor said,
Ohioans seemingly aren't well read.
Yes, Dobbin was good Deacon Larkin's pride,
The steed that made that historic ride.
Don't say he's unknown, my friends, because He's just as 'revered' as William Dawes."

The E. Taylor in his "poem," Barone explained, is Emerson Taylor, who wrote the biography, "Paul Revere." Taylor said the British, who captured Revere, "appropriated" the horse.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills. —Adv.

Daughter-In-Law Should Have Been Asked About Invitation

By EMILY POST

In-law questions are always hard to answer For example "Will you please tell me who was wrong—my husband and I or my son or my daughter-in-law? Passing their house not long ago we stopped in They had company We stayed a short time and then suggested leaving My son coaxed us to stay for dinner, explaining they had more than plenty for everyone My daughter-in-law was in the kitchen at the time, but when she heard we were staying, she did not seem put out Since then, however, one of the children has let it slip that 'Mother was very much upset' and said it was too bad they couldn't have enjoyed their friends alone"

It might have been better had you asked your daughter-in-law whether provisions were plenty to include you and then acted on the impression her answer gave you If it was an enthusiastic "We have plenty Do stay," then it would have been all right to stay, especially had you known and particularly liked their guests But if she had looked a little taken back, it would have been better not to I might add further, that unless a husband takes an unusual amount of interest in the cooking, his spontaneous hospitality can lead to many unhappy results

Dear Mrs. Post: When refreshments (a beverage and little sandwiches) are passed on a tray—silver or other kind—should there be a doily on the tray?

Answer. It is a matter of your personal preference Many people love doilies other people don't

Dear Mrs. Post: "I wonder what Emily Post would say" is a pet expression of a man I know very well and see a lot of. We've had a tiff over something that happened in a restaurant lately—innocent, perhaps, in itself, but leading to a discussion that threatened to become serious. It was caused by the remark of a waitress about this man's tie. She was a stranger to both of us and, before taking our order, commented on his good-looking tie. He seemed to think it not at all out of order and answered with a pleased "thank-you" I think she and he both incorrect.

Answer Personal remarks are never in order when made by a stranger—a fact which the waitress obviously did not know His pleasant "thank-you"—if personalities were not continued—could hardly be rated as anything more than the instinctive courtesy of every gentleman

The board of education of a Western town, explained that this is the first year the young women graduates will be wearing caps and gowns, have sent me the following list of questions:

1 May a corsage be worn with the gown?

Answer Flowers on a gown would be as out of place as on a military uniform

2 Is the tassel "changed over" for high-school graduation?

Answer The tassel hangs on the left and is not changed

3 May the girls wear white slippers with their gray or wine gowns?

Answer The only important point is that they should be alike Nothing looks worse than a mixture of brown, black and white shoes

Those whose birthday it is, may be called upon to make important decisions, affecting their future happiness and progress They would profit by giving heed to advice from elderly friends or females

Care of Hands Important

Taking stock of ourselves is often a cruel business, and can be shattering to a woman's pride Yet only by a regular and ruthless once over can we be certain that we are always looking our best and that we never have cause to regret a sketchy toilette

Start with your hands Look at them as though you were seeing them for the first time What are they twin dreams of delight, fit to enchant a king, with soft white spin and rosily-glowing finger tips? Or do you see poor red neglected things enlarged knuckles and rough cuticles?

You can't make hard work on excuse The hands of the world's busiest women are invariably lovely, well-groomed and expressive And it isn't any good making a fetish of creaming and massage for a week, and then forgetting them entirely for months Regularity is the thing, and really, you can spare five minutes a day, can't you?

Make yourself a large bottle of hand lotion Keep some on your dressing table and a little in the bathroom Massage the lotion thoroughly into your hands and wrists from the finger-tips upward always after you wash your hands and before tackling cleaning jobs or knitting sessions If you can bear the idea sleep in gloves then you can smooth a little vaseline around your dry cuticles as well

After that, just wait for admiring comments They'll be forthcoming!

High Prices Catch Up With Movie Stars

Actors Enroll In Cooking Schools

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— The high prices these days have caught up with the movie stars' menus, too. Some have quit the fancy restaurant circuit, enrolled in cooking school, and are dishing up chow at home.

They used to peel off 20 bucks for pork chops at the eateries with stiff tariffs. Now they tie on aprons, haul out the recipe books, and go to work in their own kitchens. Gents, too.

Some home-cookers enrolled in regular cooking schools.

One bunch was smarter. They started asking for recipes at their favorite restaurants. The cook at The Dells got so tired of movie folks poking around his kitchen that he started his own cooking school—free.

NO EXCUSES

He insists they come around one night a week anyway to see if the chef's food is still better than theirs.

The new home-cookers get together twice a week at noon when the joint's closed. The class arrives right on the dot. They have to, growled the chef, or he gets mad and goes home. No absences excused, either.

"Well, except when they're making pictures," said the cook, George Angelot. "Sonny Tufts missed once without an excuse, so I told him not to come back."

The chef popped into his white apron and cap and took up his stance by the charcoal broiler. The students hauled over stools from the bar and school was in session. Today's lesson: sauce for spare ribs.

After the "lecture" the pupils swapped recipes and inquired as to each other's rutabagas and fried onions. Then they rushed back to the kitchen to burn up half the pots and pans experimenting on that sauce.

Ron Randell explained he's moving from a hotel to an apartment and his new kitchen's going to be used, by golly. Barbara Hale's been taking lessons for two weeks, and today she hauled husband Bill Williams along.

"I'm tired of cooking every night," she said. "The only thing Bill knows how to make is hamburger."

The chef said Williams so far was a hopeless cook but he'd see what he could do. Andrea King and Edward Arnold were his best pupils, he added.

Vincent Price admitted he was forced into cooking class. His wife divorced him. His cook got a job singing spirituals on the radio, and, he admitted, it costs too much to eat out every night.

After the sample of sauce we had today, we'll skip further tastes until they have a few more lessons.

2 OSR Guards Settle Dispute

A $6,000 damage action brought by a Mansfield Reformatory guard against a fellow guard, set for hearing today in common pleas court, has been settled.

The action had been filed by John E. Thompson of Ashland, who had charged that on Feb. 9, 1947, Cecil Briggs, 163 East First street, his superior officer, assaulted him while both were on duty. Thompson asked $3,000 in damages and $3,000 in punitive damages, a total of $6,000.

Briggs, in his answer, said Thompson was intoxicated and abusive and assaulted him first. He said he used only such force as necessary to repel Thompson's attack.

Thompson was represented by Attorney R. W. Lett and Briggs by Attorneys Anderson, Will and O'Donnell.
